Secretary-General, Ban Ki-moon,

The Security Council, The Human Rights Council, Distinguished members of the Human Rights Council, Excellencies, Ladies and Gentlemen,

Despite the heavy sacrifices and the ultimate price Eritreans paid for independence and self-government during the 30-year struggle; the nation of Eritrea has been led by one of the world's most enduring totalitarian, Isaias Afwerki and the only ruling political entity, the People's Front for Democracy and Justice (PFDJ). The oppressive regime, authoritarian rule, and dictatorship has led the state of Eritrea to become a nation where human rights are non-existent. Fear and repression have been the awful reality for over two decades for the Eritrean people, forcing Eritreans to flee their beloved nation in droves.
